Re: New EMT cards

Good day:

Enclosed is your new EMT license identifying your new EMT license number. As identified in a previous memo last fall, it was necessary to renumber everyone when transferring the database from the EMSIP Section to the Department of Labor and Industry. Your new license card reflects that new number.

You can utilize the "licensee lookup" feature on our web site (see below) to check that all of your personal information transferred correctly. If it did not, please send me an email and let us know, we'll correct it as soon as possible.

After the first of the year (2005) you'll receive the re-licensure material from this office that will explain how you can re-licensure on line instead of by mail. As a large number of EMTs found out this year, it's a simple process that takes away the burden of re-licensure.

The transition is going well and the new rules are getting implemented part-by-part. To monitor the progress check in on the website every one and a while, all new information will be posted there as it becomes available.

If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact me. Thanks!
